Mia Rebel made her debut on the Sonic Portraits Jazz label with her contribution to the album, Art Of Protest. Her composition Any Time I Want To is an epic social justice anthem. With the creation of Celebrate The Holidays, Mia Rebel, again displays her uncanny ability to transform a simple concept into a memorable, infectious, melodic theme--- in this case; a holiday anthem. In her collaboration with Robert Irving III he introduces harmonic sophistication with an orchestral approach underneath a world music beat that make this a unique musical offering that somewhat defies categorization. The allure of this sound takes it far off the beaten path off what would be considered 'normal' holiday fare.

Being nurtured by her Mother, Aunt Gwen and Uncle Lo on Air-Force bases around the nation, Mia later studied dance in NYC, trained by the likes of Ben Vereen, Michael Peters and Alvin Ailey Dance Academy, Mia toured as a professional dancer on many Motown tours. She also performed weekly as a vocalist with the legendary guitarist, Les Paul in New York.
